INTRODUCTION.

Despite the reiterated cry that tractors are rapidly taking the place of horses for motive purposes, the horse breeding industry has by no means become a dead issue as the work of this division testifies. On the contrary, it is beginning to show signs of renewed activity, and the next few years will, in all probability, see it restored materially.

Several factors contribute to this result. Perhaps the most important, or at least it looms so just at the present time, is the immense toll of horses taken by the war. France and Belgium sacrificed practically all of their horses during that frightful struggle, while Great Britain sent her share, as did the United States and Canada, so that it will be many years before the number required to supply even the diminished demand is available. In this country, where tractors can be advantageously used on the large farms and ranches of the West and Middle West during the average season, probably fewer horses will be needed for farm use than during the "gasless age," but there are thousands of small farms all over the country where horse or mule power alone can be economically used. In wet seasons, also, the tractor will often have to be abandoned and recourse had to our faithful equine servant and friend.

In Europe, aside from Russia, small farms are the rule, and it would be out of the question to use tractors on them, even if the owners were able to buy them, which is certainly not possible at the present time, and will not be for years to come.

The prospect, therefore, for the horse breeder is brighter than for some years past, but in order to secure the best results he must use only first class breeding stock and see that it is kept in good condition all of the time.

It is gratifying to be able to report that the increase in the proportion of pure bred stallions this year is 1% greater than during any previous year. We have been able to report each year that 2% more pure bred stallions were licensed than the year previous, but this year the increase is 3% or 70% of all stallions licensed. The total number of stallions licensed was 4.436, of which 3,111 were pure bred and 1,325 grade.

Nearly two hundred more jacks were licensed in 1919 than in 1918, there having been 1,962 jack licenses issued. Of these 549, or 28%, were pure bred, and 1,113, or 72%, were grade animals. As only 26% of the jacks licensed last year were pure bred, the increase of 2% is very satisfactory.

Only about half as many Unsound licenses were issued this year as last, 79 as compared with 146 in 1918. A fair proportion of the Unsound licenses issued last year were renewed this year. Of the stallions for which Unsound licenses were issued this year, ten were affected with stringhalt, thirteen with roaring, fifteen with side-bone, five each with bog spavin and curb (without curby formation), and one each with amaurosis and chorea. Eighteen licenses were issued for jacks affected with stringhalt, five with amaurosis, three with bog spavin, two with navicular disease, and one with sidebone. In a few cases an animal had two of the above-named unsoundnesses.

Renewals.

Although the law is very clear in regard to the time when application for renewal of stallion and jack licenses may be made, and notices are sent to owners in ample time for them to comply with the law, there is still a great deal of carelessness on this point, which increases and delays the work in this office and is annoying to owners.

If stallion owners will read the law carefully, they will see that applications for renewal of licenses must be filed prior to March 1st of each year. Failure to do so requires the issuance of a new license at increased cost and unavoidable delay.

In order to secure a renewal of a license, all that is necessary is for the owner to mail the license to this office, together with application for renewal and affidavit of soundness, blanks for which are furnished, and the fee of $1.00, when the license will be renewed and returned.

If the animal has changed hands, and the transfer has not been certified in this office, one of the blank transfer forms on the back of the license should be filled out and signed before mailing, and the transfer fee of fifty cents (50c) included with the renewal fee.

Lien Law.

The Fifty-First General Assembly amended the Lien Law, making it much more effective. As originally passed, section 2 of the law required the filing of a claim for service fees within six (6) months after service and specified that the suit for foreclosure be brought within twelve (12) months of service. As the law now stands, stallion owners have twelve (12) months in which to file claim, and twenty-four (24) months to bring suit.

Recording.

Under the present law, it is not necessary to record stallion and jack licenses, but some owners still do so. This is an unnecessary expense.

Prosecutions.

While the number of violators of the law is small compared with the total number of stallion and jack owners in the State, a few men still seem to be under the impression that they can "get by" without being detected. Inasmuch as the law provides a minimum fine of $25.00 for each offense, from a financial standpoint a stallion owner cannot afford to use an unlicensed stallion for public service, while the effect on his standing in the community in which he lives amounts to much more than the amount of the fine.

Since the registration law has been on our statute books for ten years, no intelligent man can afford to plead ignorance, nor is ignorance a justification for law-breaking, as has been decided by the courts.

Public Service.

There still seems to be a good deal of misapprehension of the term "public service," and behind that violators of the law try to hide.

The term "public service" as generally understood and interpreted by this Department means the use for breeding purposes of a stallion or jack for anyone other than the owner of the sire. The serving, or offering to serve, one female owned by anyone not identified with the ownership of the horse or jack, is public service, and the person or company owning and using a stallion or jack for such purpose must first procure a license or subject himself to prosecution and fine for violation of the law.

It is not necessary to advertise a stallion or jack, or even to solicit patronage for him, to make the owner liable to fine. If the business comes wholly unsolicited and service is rendered, it is public service, and if the owner of the animal has neglected or failed to secure a license, he is amenable to the law. The question of fee for service does not enter into the case. The only question to be considered is, "Was the stallion or jack used for public service?" If so, and his owner cannot show a State license, authorizing such service, then he is quilty of violation of the law, even though the service was rendered for nothing.

Violations.

It is a violation of the Law Regulating the Public Service of Stallions and Jacks in Illinois:

To use a stallion or jack for public service without having procured a license, or renewal of license for same for the current year.

To use a stallion or jack for public service, even though you have a license, unless you have a copy of the license and affidavit of soundness, posted at each regular breeding station.

To advertise by bill, poster or newspaper, a stallion or jack for public service, without giving as a heading in each form of advertisement the number and kind of his license: As "Pure-bred Stallion (or Jack) License No. ...," "Grade Stallion (or Jack) License No. ...."

Transmittal of Fees.

Money in all cases should be sent by bank draft or postal money order. Currency is very likely to be lost in the mail, and can never be recovered. Banks object to accepting small personal checks on country banks, as their collection entails much unnecessary work and expense.

Drafts and money orders should be made payable to Stallion

Registration Division.

Comparative Tables.

The following tables give not only the number of active licenses for each breed in the State June 30, 1919, but also the total number of each breed since 1910. A comparative study of these tables discloses graphically the progress made in this work in Illinois since its inauguration.
